

My Health Record

The Government is expanding My Health Record for all Australians in 2018

Forming the cornerstone of a better health system and digital health innovations for Australia.

Expanding on an existing, proven system that is safe and secure.

Giving all Australians control of their own health record, what it contains and how it is accessed.

Providing a choice to opt out of having a My Health Record altogether if they prefer.

Our vision is a world-leading national, digital health capability that improves the lives of all Australians by supporting the efficient delivery of healthcare.

My Health Record provides for potentially lifesaving access to a patient's key health information such as medications, allergies, conditions and test results - supporting significant improvements in the safety, quality and efficiency of Australia's healthcare system.

For more information visit myhealthrecord.gov.au

Australian Government
Australian Digital Health Agency

My Health Record